We know that your customers are looking for the perfect drink from you. We can help find that solution that will make your concept a reality.

We can offer you years of experience in tested systems and complete access to our research and development laboratories for custom development. Finding the right trade off between flavor, mouth-feel, functionality and stability is a collaborative process that can be done quickly and with surprising results.

When it comes time for shelf life testing and a trial run for market testing, our development staff will be right there beside you to make sure that the first run goes smoothly.

Fruit drinks today come in all different sizes and shapes. Ambient storage to refrigerated. Labeling requirements are constantly changing.

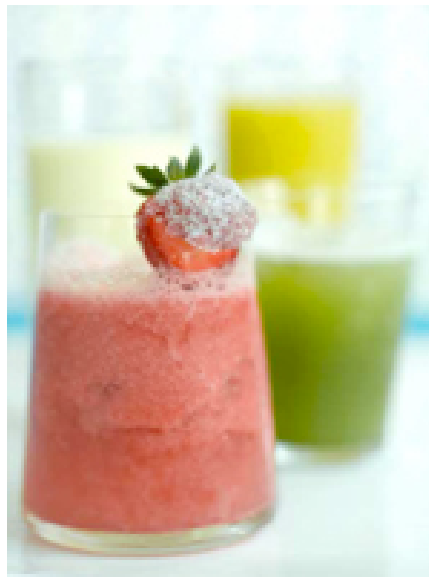

Flavors From Florida takes a practical approach to every project we work on with a customer. Every aspect of the beverage life-cycle has to be taken in to account when designing a drink base to ensure that the finished product has the highest quality.

- Juice content
- Functional additives such as vitamins
- Proteins
- Color
- Solids or pulps to change mouth feel
- Stabilization systems
- Natural or artificial sweeteners
- Preservative systems
- Packaging selection
- Product Labeling constraints
- Shelf life requirements
- Storage requirements

Our bases are generally between 10 and 200 fold concentrations that are formulated such that upon dilution with customer-added ingredients (sweetener, water, etc...) the resulting beverage would be ready for packaging and distribution.

We have supported our customers over the years to create thousands of brand name fruit drinks in any imaginable flavor under the sun. Whether you are looking to market a high juice, functional beverage or low/no juice drinks that mimic pure fruit juice, Flavors From Florida has the technologies and the research support staff to develop that flavor you need to be successful.

Flavors From Florida is a global company serving customers in 20 different countries. We constantly travel the globe looking for local fruit drink products that can help our customers with new concepts. From orange to acerola flavor, the possibilities are endless.

Additionally, If you are looking to improve on a market leading product for your customers we have extensive experience in improving on existing products in many applications.

Clear Trend Toward Health

It is now evident that the low-carb diet craze wasn't the cure-all answer many overweight consumers hoped for. We launched HealthSystems™ in response to create standard healthy systems that can be flavored at very low sugar and carbohydrate levels.

It is evident that this has and will lead to an increased number of new product introductions in the market containing:

- Vitamins
- Fibers
- Isoflavones and phytosterols
- Reduced or no sugar added
